ACCC warns consumers about various Daiso products containing button batteries

Enterprise Singapore is joining overseas regulator, Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (ACCC), to issue an advisory for the following Daiso products.

Products affected

The battery compartment of these products may not be adequately secured, allowing possible access to the button battery if dropped on a hard surface. Young children who gain access to the button batteries and ingest them may suffer internal burn injuries, which can result in serious illness and even death. In addition, the batteries may pose a choking hazard.

Enterprise Singapore has not received any reports on the affected products to date, but encourage consumers to exercise caution and stop using the products.
